Miss Mildred Lee, daughter of the late General Robert E. Lee, will sail from Liverpool for home to morrow. A LARGE-SIZED SCARE.

Commotion Caused at the Government Printing Office.

The Government Printing Office nar rowly escaped a panic yesterday, but save the scare and the time that some of the adv employes lost from their work by fainting away, no harm was done.

The system of fire alarms throughout the building is very complete. Scattered all through the various rooms are little red boxes with glass fronts, and beside each one of these is a card directing every one to break the glass in case of fire. Pressing against the inside of the box is an electric button. When the glass is broken the button is released and an alarm is rung on each of the bells scatan electric bilton. When the glass is broken the button is released and an alarm is rung on each of the bells scattered throughout the building, the number of rings corresponding to the location of the broken box, just as in the city's fire-alarm system.

Yesterday afternoon the wire was broken accidentally and alarms were consequently rung on all the bells. For a few moments it looked as if there would be a serious panic. The female employes made a precipitate rush for the stairways and fire escapes, such of them as did not faint, and the men unrolled the hose and got the fire apparatus in readiness. The few who stopped to think about the matter realized at once that it was a false alarm, as no number was struck to indicate where the fire was. Messengers and watchmen were sent through the building with reassuring messages. The excitement was allayed and those of the ladies who had not fainted devoted themselves to resuscitating those who had.

GENERAL WALKER'S RETURN. The Remains of his Drowned Boy not yet Recovered. General Duncan S. Walker and Mrs. Walker arrived in the city from Seabright at 5:30 e'clock this morning, bringing with them the remains of their beloved daughter Edith, the body of her brother not having been recovered. It is now thought that she died of heart disease, in duced by over-exection while struggling in the water to save herself and Robert. She could swim a little and her inanimate form soon came to shore, while the poor boy must have been drowned and carried out to sea. The current at the time was setting toward the Long Island shore and he may be found in some of the inand he may be found in some of the in-lets there, as rewards have been offered for the recovery of the body and the Life-Saving Service is also doing all it can in the matter to relieve the terrible suspense of the grief-stricken parents. Ryan said he did not think it fair to the Republicans for the Democrats to call the regular order when nearly every morning some Democratic member moved the passage of a bill by unanimous consent. The regular order, the Speaker announced, was the unfinished business, which was the call of the yeas and rays on the passage of the Forfeiture Land bill, no quorum laving voted yesterday. The roll was called and the bill passed by a vote of 177 to 8.

by a vete of 177 to 8.

Mr. Mills meved to go into Committee of the Whole on the Tariff bill, but yielded for the call of committees.

Favorable reports were then submitted upon the following bills: Punishing public drankenness in the District; granter with of year to the Wooming Mid-public drunkenness in the District; granting right of way to the Wyoming Midhand Railroad through the Wind River Indian Reservation, and authorizing the printing of the reports of the National Academy of Sciences for '86 and '87.

The Tariff bill was then called up.

Mr. Buchanan's motion to increase the duty on railway fish-plates or splice-bars from eight-tenths of a cent to one cent per pound was lost; also the motion to strike out the duty one and a half cents per pound on anvils, anchors and forgings of pound on anvils, anchors and forgings of iron and steel for vessels, etc.; Mr. Jack-son's motion to strike out the paragraph relating to saws, on which the duty of thirty per centum ad valorem had been fixed, and the motion of Mr. Farquhar, to strike out paragraph on files, rasps, &c. Several other amendments were moved and lost. On motion of Mr. Vance the paragraph fixing a duty of 35 per centum ad valorem on "wood screws" was stricken Mr. Stone of Missouri moved to strike out the paragraph relating to lead ore, i of 1 per cent, per pound. Mr. Breckinridge of Arkansas opposed the amendment, and after a somewhat desultory discussion between Mr. Milis and Mr. Reed, in which Mr. Burrows participated, it was lost.

Mr. Warner moved to increase the duty

The Defense Open in the Case of Chase,

In the case of Joseph Chave, placed on trial yesterday on the charge of manslaughter in causing the death of the late Edward A. Paul, principal of the Washington High School, additional testimony was introduced by the Government to day to show that Chase was riding down day to show that Chase was riding down the Fourteenth street road at an extra-ordinary rate of speed on the occasion of the tragedy. Waiter W. Farrar Charles E. Gannon and John H. Keatley testified to the rapidity with which Chase was riding and to the incidents surrounding Mr. Paul's death. At this point Justice Montgomery reminded Mr. Lipscomb that he had now called 20 witnesses on these points.

that he had now called 20 witnesses on these points.

The Government here rested its case and the defense put Chase on the stand. He stated that he rode out Fourteenth street, but did not come back as fast as he had gone out. When he neared Mr. Paul he tried to avoid him, pulling his horse around sharply with all his force. Then the horse fell down upon his legs. He had never been in that part of the country before. He had not been drinking and was never in the habit of using intoxicating ilquors. He was riding fast because he wanted to reach home hefore dark. He was going to his uncle's house, but did not explain why he had gone two blocks beyond the street on which his uncle lived. He admitted having heen sent to the Reform School by his father.

His stepfather. Thomas W. Chabe,

His stepfather. Thomas W. Chase, testified that Joseph was never in the habit of using intoxicating liquors. The counsel for the defense allowed Mr. Lipecomb to waive his opening address to the jury and Mr. Moss proceeded to address them at 11 o'clock.

In addressing the jury, he referred in rather warm terms to the fact that the Government had challenged two colored men on the jury, referring to it as a matter of race prejudice.

All that Mr. Lipecomb said in reply to this was a statement that he would allude to no cotton-field prejudices.

In his charge to the jury, Justice Montgomery defined the crime of manslaughtor and reviewed the theories of the Government and the defense. It was agreed that there was no intent, for had any intent existed the crime would be murder. The point for their consideration was whether or not the defendant was riding in a reckless manner at a reckless gait. in a reckless manner at a reckless gait.

The jury took the case at twenty minutes past 12 o'clock.

At twenty minutes past 1 the jury returned a verdict of guilty as indicted. Notice was given of a motion for a new PRINCIPAL PAUL'S DEATH. GENERAL SHERIDAN'S TRIP. GENERAL TELEGRAMS.

New Youx, July 6,—The Hernid has the following special from Lewes, Del.: "General Sheridan is resting easily tonight, and seems much easier than at any time since he has left for his New Engtime since he has left for his New England home. A chop sea and ground swell made it rough from Hompton Roads to the Breakwater, but the three days' resin the harbor has seeined to do him good. To-night he said he felt much better, and was hungry. The attendants do nothing and allow nothing except by Dr. Pepper's orders. The doctors in attendance are only supernumeraries, and merely watch to see that Dr. Pepper's orders are carried out. The General is much better, and is now in a fair way to get well, if not too scientifically treated. To-night General Sheridan said: 'If I can only have a few days' rest and be let alone I will be all right,' He feels only too keenly that too much doctoring is not good, and says that his sfay at the Breakwater and along the coast has done him more good than all else."

Bowles, the Conspirator Against Bur-tington Property. CHICAGO, July 6 .- An ex-Burlington employe, discussing the arrest of the three men charged with conspiracy to three men charged with conspiracy to blow up the Burlington property last night, said: "That chap Bowles is a pretty good actor, but I got 'onto' him. You hear me, if he ain't a Pinkerton operative I'm making a big mistake. How do I know? Why, he's arrested with the party, of course; he's been shadowing em and had to be pinched with them to avoid suspicion. You bethe's been working right with 'em and tipped off all they have done and their programme.

"When the 'pinch' comes he's the indignant one. He talks 'outrage' and all that; he makes a bluff that he don't know these men, and he cries because he has to be locked up. I noticed Hoge

Montheal, July 6.—The, creditors and stomers of the absconding carriage maker, Quesne, were startled yesterday when they heard that more than half of the paper he leaves behind him is forged. One of the largest creditors says that of $40,000 of paper, not more than $5,000 is genuine. Another creditor, who holds about $2,000 of paper, says that only two small notes of $75 each are genuine, while a money broker, who has discounted $8,000, holds a large percentage of forgeries. The book-keeper of the firm admitted that he, as well as his employer, had for some time past been carrying on a huge system of fraud, he even forging the signatures. the largest creditors says that o

Mr. Parnell Denounces the London

"Times" Forgeries.

MEANING OF THE GREAT SUIT

Matters of Interest Throughout America and Europe.

Losson, July 6,-The famous, or what promises to be the famous, trial of O'Don-nell's libel suit against the Times has ended and no glory attaches to either plaintiff or defendant. None of the expected exposures of the National League were made, and none of the Nationalists burt in the conflict. Taken all in all, the whole affair was a miserable farce, and an abortice attempt on the part of the whole affair was a miserable farce, and an abortive attempt on the part of the Trines to make political capital and to inflict a blow upon the League, and especially upon Mr. Parnell. No one who can correctly estimate the trial and its results for a moment doubts now that O'Domell and the Times were in collision and that the action was brought by mutual agreement, by the former for the sake of revenge, which feeling was stimulated no doubt by Conservative money.

noncy, By the latter the action was brough By the latter the action was brought that certain admissions might be forced from Mr. Parnell on the witness at and which would tend to hurt the Irish party. There is a strong suspicion that O Donnell himself was the author of the letters produced by the Times, and that he, being impecuations, manufactured them for the benefit of that newspaper and brought the libel action in the same manner. O Donnell, after he left the League in 1884, became a reporter on various newspapers, and got into bad rerious newspapers, and got into bad repute, so that for some time he has borne an unsavory reputation. When he went to Paris he was despised by all the members of the League there, and could not gain an entrance to any of the Fenian gain an entrance to any of the Fenian circles of France.

To obtain his revenge he probably took the course he did. He had in his possession two of Mr. Francil's letters, the handwriting of which he is thought to have copied more or less successfully. The Fines has done little good to the cause it aimed at kelping, and now is the laughing stock of U.e. country. The Nationalists have lest none of their dignity, and had Mr. Parnell been called to the witness stand, which place he was all ready to assume, the fraud might have been exposed and the stigma of double dealing and contemptible practices surely put upon the Times.

DENOUNCED AS FALSE.

Mr. Parnell Repudiates the Forgories Printed in the "Times."

London, July 6.—In the House of Com one this afternoon Mr. Parnell said that the conclusion of the O'Donnell libel suit against the Times had prevented him from testifying under oath to the falseness of the statements made in reference to himself. He would therefore tender the statement to the House that he had never seen the letter purported to have been written by him to Mr. Egan, February 24, 1881.

This letter he pronounced a forgery, Regarding the letter of his, saying: "I see no objection to your giving the amount asked for. There is not the least likelihood of what you apprehend happening." Mr. Parnell stated that this might be genuine, he could not recollect it, however. Mr. Parnell continued to speak for some time. Later Mr. Justin McCarthy will address the House on the same subject.

The relief fund has coome so low that the hundred strikers become so low that the hundred trikers who had remained true to the union only received $1.50 each last week. Between 200 and 300 members, forced by dire necessity, have applied for and obtained work in pool brewerles. To prevent the union from going to pieces it was resulved today to remetate these men though they had been suspended for deserting the cause.

The union had attempted in every way to break the pool, but did not succeed further than to establish the Banner brewery as they found the opposition too strong. The boycott against pool beer by the Central Labor Union will be continued, and a public meeting will be held to morrow night at Lancoln Park with speeches by well-known labor leaders who are opposed to the pool and its monopoly.

warren, the ex-letter carrier, who was arrested in New York Wednesday while witnessing the parade of the letter-carriers, on the charge of having robbed the mails in this city on June 0, was brought back this morning by Deputy Marsful James Marshall.

Warren, after being arrested on June 6, was held in $1,500 ball by United States Commissioner Edmunds. While on the way to Moyamensing with the marshall he leaped from a street car and escaped after a long chase. Warren had not been seen or heard from since getting away from the marshal.

Warren is charged with stealing $50 from letters in the stacks of other carriers. For several weeks all the men on the force were under surveillance and as no letters were found missing from Warren's rack he was not suspected of the stealings. After a two weeks' search Warren was caught by means of a decoy letter mailed by Chief Inspector O'Leary to the Louisiana lottery. Warren made it a practice to steal all the lottery letters mailed. When confronted with the charge he wept and begged for mercy.
